Red Cloud Causing Trouble Among the Sioux Indians.

HEAVY REDUCTION IN PASSENGER RATES FROM CHICAGO.

Government Called upon for Aid for Yellow Fever Sufferers. The Silk Industry in America.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Omaha, Aug. 19.—In answer to a telegram of inquiry sent from military headquarters at Omaha, Dr. McGillicuddy, agent of Pine Ridge agency, telegraphs to General Crook that trouble among the Sioux Indians was caused by Red Cloud and a few disaffected followers, who have been instigated thereto by white influence. McGillicuddy yesterday summoned a council of all chiefs and head men, and they unanimously voted to crush out any rebellion and swear allegiance to the government. McGillicuddy says there is no danger of an outbreak, and no troops are required at present, but Red Cloud will always be a source of trouble, and should be removed to Fort Leavenworth. Agent McGillicuddy also adds that the interference of white cutthroats in northern Nebraska should be prevented, and all that he requires is authority and power.

Indian Territory Notes.

St. Louis, Aug. 19.—Republican special: The late election in the Chickasaw Indian nation resulted in the re-election of Governor Overton by a large majority. His election is regarded as a triumph of the law and order element of the nation.

Advices from the Creek nation are to the effect that Capt. Dan. Miller, who was placed in command a few days ago of a company of 40 picked men, with instructions to capture the murderers wanted by the Choctaw authorities, has taken the field for the purpose. The outlaws being pursued by Capt. Miller are supposed to number fifteen or twenty, and if overhauled there will be lively times and a fierce struggle.

North Adams, Mass., Aug 20.—At a picnic yesterday Sullivan and Joe Goss began a sparring exhibition, which was disturbed on the second round by a row among spectators. This became so serious the exhibition was stopped, and after the grove had been cleared the mill was continued and finished in a hall this evening. Sullivan in the first round evidently had the advantage. Up to the third round not much was done, but in the fourth Goss struck Sullivan in his left eye nearly closing it. In the fifth round Sullivan punished Goss badly, the latter being nearly exhausted. This closed the performance. No bet, [illegible] in the fight, which was considered exceptional.

The Knights of Labor held a meeting this morning, and the members present resolved not to submit to the companies' terms, but to continue the strike.

The Strike a Failure.

Pittsburg, Aug. 20.—The miners' strike is acknowledged by leaders to be a failure. A large number of strikers returned to work to-day at the old wages and it is thought by many the break will become general. A convention was held at Walker's mills this P. Wicked for Clergymen.

Rev. ——, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile stuffs called medicines, but when a really meritorious article made of valuable remedies known to all, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully and heartily commend Hop Bitters for the good they have done me and my friends, firmly believing they have no equal for family use. I will not be without them."—New York Baptist Weekly.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Frauds in French Brandy.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The [illegible] consular reports contains a report by Consul [illegible] of La Rochelle, on the [illegible] exports from La Rochelle to the United States. The production of genuine brandy from the white wine of France, [illegible], has [illegible] on account of the failure of the [illegible] and the greater part of the wine now sold [illegible] from alcohol distilled from grain, potatoes [illegible]. Coincident with the failure of white wine was the appearance of large quantities of alcohol [illegible] adjacent to [illegible] producing section of the country, [illegible] from Germany. The importation of alcohol, he says, increases from year to year, [illegible] per cent greater than in 1880. [illegible] closes his report as follows: "All French brandy might properly and perhaps ought to be excluded from the United States on sanitary grounds. There is a strong presumption against the purity of a large part of it and it is unfortunately almost impossible to detect the fraud by chemical analysis, especially since various mixtures now employed are passed through a still. The reputation of a few great houses that now place on the market only what they draw from their own stocks accumulated before 1879 might be a sufficient guarantee of the purity of their merchandise, but even with respect to them it may be said that they dose their brandies with caramels and other substances in order to adapt them to the tastes of their English and American customers. They would never venture to send the United States a strictly pure brandy as it comes from the still, for our amateurs would regard it as harsh and inferior and perhaps a falsified article. In any case those houses could hardly be excepted by name from the operation of such measures as might be taken to protect the public health. General measures excluding the article entirely would seem, therefore, to be the only effective defense against admission of a poison for which our people pay one to two million dollars per year, besides an import duty, which in case of an impure article is over 100 per cent. of the invoice value.

Aid for Yellow Fever Sufferers.

Washington, Aug. 20.—A telegram from Governor Roberts, Texas, was received yesterday at the treasury department stating the suffering condition of those sick with yellow fever, of the 2000 persons in Brownsville and out of employment on account of quarantine, requesting aid. Acting secretary French replied that the government would take charge of the hospital and quarantine at suitable stations if the governor desired it, but that the state of Texas must support all persons not in the hospital. If the governor accepts this view the surgeon general of the marine hospital service will at once muster into his services and pay guards at proper points to prevent egress from Brownsville and will, through one of his surgeons, take charge of all hospital arrangements. Surgeon General Hamilton has already made arrangements by which hospital tents have been sent to Memphis and instructions given to the surgeon of the service there to procure at once on receiving orders to Brownsville to take charge of the yellow fever patients.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

A Tramp's Story.

Taylorsville, Ills., Aug. 19.—The father of Miss Bond, so cruelly outraged, and for alleged complicity in which Doel Clements, Pettis and Montgomery came so near being lynched a short time ago, has received a letter dated at Chicago which professes to come from a tramp who was near by at the time of the brutal deed, and professes to know the facts. He says in his letter: "You should have let the mob take their course. It would be only just punishment for those brutes. Dr. Vermillyon, who is not so bad, because he had no part in the outrage, knew what was going on just the same. My wife wished me to write a week ago to you, but I thought the law would deal justly. I happened to be going through Taylorsville that same day. I shall not mention why, but those who outraged your daughter are the very three that have been arrested. Pettis and Clements were concealed up stairs. John Montgomery's brother came and was afraid, and he told the other three to fly for their lives, as some god damned spy was around. John Montgomery and Clements came out together from the school house. Some one of the two made a remark: 'She will not be stuck up after this.' That was all I heard. I am the tramp whom they mentioned. Montgomery knows me well."

Bond thinks he knows who the writer is and that it is some one who resides in Grove City neighborhood and who was in Chicago when the letter was written but does not wish his name disclosed until he is better informed. Bond offers one hundred dollars reward to the writer if he will come forward and support his letter.

A Titled Swindler.

New York, Aug. 20.—Marquis Maurice Maurin DeCalenzo, aged 36, has just been sent to prison at Paris for 13 months and fined 150 francs for swindling and theft. He was for some time employed on the Sun in this city and wrote many articles subsequently published in book form, giving his recollections of European celebrities, some of them at least being bogus. On his recent return to France, Maurin robbed the trunk of a fellow lodger, swindled M. Pewter, secretary of Le Figaro, out of 300 francs, and obtained small sums from other Parisian journalists. He tried to strike Henri Rochefort, to whom he had a letter from John Swinton, for 2500 francs, but in vain. Maurin got into similar scrapes in America at Boston.

LONDON LETTERS.

Anxiety Regarding General Wolseley's Plan of Action in Egypt. Gladstone's Administration. Good Harvest in England.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

New York, Aug. 20.—[illegible] There is no definite news from [illegible] Wolseley. Arabi's position is seemingly strong, both [illegible] and [illegible] and it must be [illegible] up Arabi [illegible]. It may be [illegible] to prevent Turkish [illegible] of any kind. [illegible] Arabi [illegible] great [illegible] rising. His [illegible] the Nile which would [illegible] movement from Aboukir or Rosetta. The Turkish ruler is now willing to sign the military convention with England. The sultan perhaps [illegible] abstention is better than co-operation.

Some excitement was caused by the announcement of the Prince of Wales' departure for the continent. The London season is most trying to anyone taking pleasure according to the west end fashion and as a leader of fashion the prince goes through an enormous amount of work miscalled pleasure. Even his constitution requires rest, therefore he has gone abroad for a change of scene and air, possibly to drink waters.

The World's London cable says parliament adjourned last evening until October 24th, a course of action entirely without precedent since 1871, in which year there was an adjournment from August 2d to October 27th to allow the Irish parliament time to consider the proposed commercial resolutions. It is by no means unlikely that the fashion of autumnal sessions of a month or six weeks' duration, to begin about November 1st, will be adopted in the future, enabling the legislators to leave London about the middle of July. Although Gladstone has described the session which has just terminated as one of ruin and discomfiture, there can be no doubt that it leaves the liberal party more secure in their enjoyment of power than it has been for months past, thanks to impudence with which Gladstone has pirated the spirited foreign policy of Beaconsfield, so fiercely attacked and abused by the liberals then in opposition, though it must always be remembered that Gladstone during the Midlothian campaign threw an anchor to the windward by laying down very much the plan of operations in Egypt that has been followed in the present difficulty.

By the irony of fate, the converting of Cyprus into a military depot and employment of Indian troops, the expense of the latter being put upon the Indian government, in the face of all the salient points of the "Jingo" programme by denouncing which the liberals came into power and have secured to the present government the confidence of the country, which they will retain so long as they show themselves determined to maintain the dignity of the nation at home and abroad.

Cetewayo is the lion of the hour, though the powers that be at the colonial office only allow him to roar very mildly. He is much pleased with the conditions of his partial restoration to his kingdom, a British resident being appointed at his capital as a political dry nurse. He leaves England in about three weeks from now. The general opinion among those who know anything about the subject, seems to be that when Cetewayo is at home he will do his utmost to make things pleasant for Chief John Dunn, who has been taking on a good deal in his absence.

The Zulu king's domestic habits as reported in the newspapers are scarcely worth imitating. He has a huge appetite and devours great quantities of meat, with beef for his choice, washed down by raw whisky. He prefers fingers to forks and the woolly head of the prime minister provides him with the modern refinement of the napkin. His portrait is to appear shortly in Vanity Fair.

The London stock market has been buoyant this week, especially for English railroad securities and Egyptian and Turkish tribute loans. The market here for American securities of all sorts simply reflects the movement on your side of the Atlantic. There is very little business doing in anything, as most of the dealers are away and the public at large is holding aloof until foreign politics present a more settled aspect. Bonds being favorable, a large amount of business both by investors and speculators may be anticipated next month.

All eyes are now turned toward Egypt from which, however, no news of a decisive character is to be expected just yet. There is much speculation as to Sir Garnet Wolseley's plans, which the general keeps profoundly secret. In professional circles here the troops that have been re-embarked at Alexandria are believed to be destined for Ismailia, by way of Port Said, and it is surmised that unless there should be good reason for believing that a direct blow to Arabi would end in his being deserted by his forces, no general movement will be made until the arrival of the Indian contingent at Suez, when, simultaneously with an attack on the front of Arabi's lines near Alexandria, an advance will be made from Ismailia and Suez in the direction of Cairo, with the object of cutting off his line of retreat and occupying Cairo, so as to prevent that city sharing the fate of Alexandria.

It is difficult to imagine how Arabi Bey's army is to be able to stand against a strong, well disciplined and perfectly equipped force such as we have sent out to Egypt.

The affair is generally regarded here as a military promenade, always supposing that no external complications arise. Now and then a faint remembrance of Isandlana shakes this quiet complacency, but then if Arabi makes no successful stand our troubles will begin when the European concert begins to consider what the future government of Egypt shall be. There are rumors to-day that Arabi has been proposing terms, and there are sanguine souls who think it not impossible that he may surrender without firing a shot.

Harvesting is still continuing in fine if rather dull weather. All the crops are realizing the expectations that have been formed of them recently, and are above an ordinary average, with the exception of the wheat crop, and even that is above the average of the last fifteen years. The yield of hay is one of the heaviest ever known. So with the vigorous foreign policy and decent harvest Mr. Gladstone's administration seems for the moment to be in luck all round.

ACCIDENTS.

A Circus Demoralized.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 20.—Coup's circus left here this morning in two sections. When about fifty miles north of this city the engine of the second section ran into a passenger coach on the rear of the first train, completely demolishing the coach, killing three drivers and wounding about 25 or 30 others. They were going down grade. The first section was heavily loaded, and the second train running fast at the time of the accident. The stock and cars ahead of the coach in the first section, and in rear of the engine in the second section, escaped unhurt. Relief trains with physicians were sent to the scene of the wreck at once.

A Frightful Death.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—About 2 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the Walton house, 132 East Washington street, a not too reputable locality, and from room 43, where smoke was thickest, the agonizing screams of a woman were heard. A fireman broke into the room, extinguished the flames, and found Mrs. Frank Flynn lying on a bed, burned out of resemblance to human form, and barely alive. She appeared to have upset the kerosene lamp in an insane or drunken frenzy. She was taken to the county hospital to die. Her flesh was soaked and burned to a crisp.

Killed by an Engine.

Austin (Nev.), Aug. 19.—This morning, as the motor of the Austin street railway was descending a grade at Clifton, the steam brakes broke while it was on a steep grade and the engine became unmanageable. As it was turning a curve it fell over, burying Andy Wright, the engineer, under the wreck, killing him instantly, and mangling his body frightfully.

Boiler Broken Into.

New York, Aug. 19.—Two men were badly scalded and four others received injuries that may prove fatal by the breaking of the boiler of the steamer Katershall this morning. The walking beam broke and jammed the piston rod into the boiler. The passengers were all badly scared.

Railroad Accident.

Olney (Ill.), Aug. 19.—An accident on the Ohio & Mississippi here last night killed one, and wounded several persons.

AN ORCHARD PEST.

Hood River, Aug. 14, 1882.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

In a recent issue of The Oregonian it is stated that a fine pear and cherry orchard had been destroyed near Beaverton by the ravages of the pear slug. It is to be regretted that these injurious insects, so long unknown here, are finding their way into our orchards. The green aphis has been invading our orchards for a few years and our cherry and pear trees are seriously threatened.

In my opinion this subject should be looked into by our legislature and laws enacted prohibiting the importation of any kind of nursery stock impregnated or laden with any disease or eggs of injurious insects. For, once here, I fear they will hardly cease their ravages so long as they have material to work on.

On the eve of the advent of the pear slug (for this is the first notice I have seen of it) let me suggest a remedy from P. Barry, of Rochester, N. Y., who is probably our leader in horticulture today. Take fine dry dust and sprinkle over the trees. If the earth is not sufficiently dry take ashes or slaked lime. This is too cheap and simple to be neglected, and if one dusting does not do the work properly, it should be repeated three or four times, or as often as there is a slug to be seen. J. H.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

California Republican Convention.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Present indications point to a very large gathering of republicans at the state convention which is to assemble at Sacramento August 30th. The convention [illegible] delegates, of which San Francisco will have 97, Alameda [illegible], Los Angeles 16, Sacramento 20 and Santa Clara 17. The basis of representation to the convention is made as follows: One delegate at large from each county, one for each 200 votes cast for Garfield and Arthur electors, and one for each fraction of one hundred votes or over. Already many rooms in hotels and private houses have been engaged by candidates and delegates. Many predict that the throng will be the largest ever convened to witness the deliberations of a political convention. The secretary of the committee says the convention will be a representation of the solid, progressive and worthy men of the state. It is a noteworthy fact that [illegible] instructions have been given in many sections in favor of maintaining the Sunday law on the statute books. The secretary says the instructions are so emphatic and the feeling so widespread on this question that the convention will doubtless declare emphatically against the repeal of the law.

Pixley's Position Defined.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—Hon. Frank Pixley delivered to-night an able lecture at Soldiers' hall, in Silver Star house, on the subject, "Politics makes cowards of us all." Over 700 persons were present, many having to go away without being able to obtain seats. On questions of Sunday law and temperance the speaker took very bold and advanced grounds. On the Sunday law he took the position that the republican party should espouse the cause of sanctity of the Sabbath as a moral, physical and intellectual necessity; that as a preservation of labor against the encroachments of capital it was a living vital necessity. Speaking of the temperance question, he said the republican party as a progressive party had met the question of slavery and settled it; that the republican party, on the basis of its national importance, should accept this temperance question as a living issue, and that the republican convention at Sacramento would be required to accept the challenge thrown down by the democratic convention at San Jose. His position favoring the Sunday law and temperance was very clearly, boldly and forcibly defined.

The Mechanics' Fair.

The mechanics' exposition this year bids fair to surpass the expectations of its managers. The sale of tickets has been unusually large and there appears to be no diminution in the demand for them. The receipts thus far have been nearly double those for the corresponding time last year. Up to to-day there has been received $8225 25, against $4216 25 last year. Yesterday's receipts were $1773 25, against $[illegible] in 1881.

Saloon Difficulty.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 19.—A difficulty occurred here today, at the Bank Exchange saloon, between two young men, P. J. Hensley and W. J. Brown. Hensley drew a pistol, when Brown sprang at him and grasped the weapon. A struggle ensued, during which the pistol was discharged. The ball struck Brown on the thigh, but its progress was arrested by a $20 gold piece in his pocket and no injury inflicted. Brown wrenched the weapon from Hensley's hand, when the latter turned and fled. Brown fired a shot, which struck him in the back, and ranging upward and forward passed through the right lung. The wound is dangerous. Brown is in custody.

The Red Bluff Fire.

Red Bluff, Aug. 19.—This place was visited last night by a very destructive fire. The burned district comprises three blocks of the best business section of town. No lives lost, but there were several mishaps. Total loss will probably reach $250,000; insurance $150,000. During the fire looting was indulged in by numbers of persons, and four Chinamen and four white men were arrested for plundering and are now in jail. The work of rebuilding will be commenced as soon as insurance is adjusted.

Engineer Killed.

Orland, Aug. 19.—An engine and tender ran off the track to-day one mile north of Orland and Engineer E. W. Pickett jumped, but was caught by the cab of the engine as it fell over and instantly killed. Three others on board saved themselves by jumping.

ARIZONA.

A New Outbreak Feared.

Tucson, A. T., Aug. 18.—The Star's special advices from San Carlos say that B. Wilcox, newly appointed Indian agent, has refused to assume charge, as he found affairs in a frightfully confused condition. The commissary and sub-agent has suddenly turned up missing. Evidence of gross fraud and peculation under Tiffany's administration is alleged to be overwhelming. The Tonto Apaches are very restless. Last Friday night they had prepared to make a break; but some of the better element of the Tontos were armed and turned out to prevent the emeute. The Tontos offered 25 cents for all the cartridges they could get on the day they had fixed for the outbreak. Matters are assuming a serious aspect, and settlers around the reservation are now organizing for a movement. The anti-reservation people are increasing their forces in every section, and special agents are visiting all principal towns and camps, and organizing for any emergency which may arise.

A Lively Battle.

Tucson, Aug. 19.—The Star's special advices of the 16th from Hermosillo, Sonora, says: "In a fight with Apaches, in the Sahuaripa district, the Mexican troops lost 45 men and the Indians left 38 dead on the field. Eighteen women and twelve children were killed on the road between Sahuaripa and Trinidad mines. There are one thousand national troops expected shortly, 100 coming by steamer. Indian prisoners are still in Hermosillo.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

Victoria, Aug. 18.—Extensive preparations are making for the reception of Lord Lorne and Princess Louise who will sail from San Francisco for Victoria about the 12th of September. The war ship Comus will bring them to Victoria.

The run of salmon is about an average one and satisfactory.

An arrival from the Northern coast reports meeting the excursion steamer Dakota and United States mail steamer Evangel in Granville channel on the 10th, bound north.

All along the Frazer river its edge is black with salmon, while the creeks for a long distance are jammed with them. Millions are to be seen and as the water goes down in the creeks thousands are left to die along the edges and where the water becomes shallow are dried up.

The Chinese workers below Emory went this week for another boss and he had to make tracks for Yale. An effort has been made to get out eight warrants, but the names of the Chinamen could not be found, consequently the effort failed. It is feared that trouble is brewing along the railway and of late part of the Chinamen act somewhat unruly.

Monday last, Thomas Preston aged about 60 years, and formerly from San Francisco, where it is said he has a family, was killed by a slide from the side of the hill. His remains were buried up the [illegible] day.

Steamship [illegible] passed down last night.

The bark Henry Buck, 20 days from Petropaulovski, arrived to-day.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

The Expected Battle Turns out to be a Skirmish.

SUEZ CANAL OCCUPIED AND HELD BY BRITISH TROOPS.

Port Said and Ismailia Filled with Soldiers. No Foreign Vessels Allowed to Enter the Canal and all Tools Seized.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Alexandria, Aug. 18.—Six transports with troops and two gunboats left this port Friday night, to take a position outside the harbor ready to start.

11:30 P. M.—The transports and fleet are now steaming eastward. The ships have their topmasts lowered and yards secured, with everything cleared, ready for action.

Heavy firing in the direction of Aboukir has just begun.

The firing heard in the direction of Aboukir this afternoon was the British 12-ton guns along the Mahmoudieh canal.

The Battle Commenced.

Alexandria, Aug. 19—6 P. M.—Fighting commenced this afternoon on Mahmoudieh canal. The British are using the heavy guns brought into the neighborhood of Malhalla junction yesterday. Fighting still continues.

General Wolseley's Ruse.

London, Aug. 20.—A dispatch from Alexandria says the intention to bombard Aboukir, which was officially announced on Friday, was either a ruse or abandoned at the last moment. The fleet and transports went to Aboukir Saturday afternoon, but at 10:30 at night quietly steamed out east, leaving the Achilles and two other vessels in Aboukir bay. These are still anchored in the bay south of Nelson island, from which point they control the railway to Rosetta, but the coast from Aboukir to Rosetta shows no signs of any landing having been made. White flags are still flying on Aboukir forts.

Sunday's Reconnoissance.

Alexandria, Aug. 20.—Troops landed from transport which arrived to-day and were immediately sent to the front. There was a reconnoissance in force at four o'clock this afternoon along Mahmoudieh canal by the thirty eighth, forty-ninth, seventy-fifth and seventy-ninth regiments. The enemy kept within their entrenchments firing shell at the British advance. No casualties.

Saturday's Skirmish.

Alexandria, Aug. 20.—In the skirmish yesterday the Egyptians fired shrapnell shell ineffectually at the outposts of the 46th infantry, numbering 300, and occupying temporary entrenchments. The Egyptian infantry then advanced to within about 800 yards. They were coming from Kafr el Dwar. Some cavalry also appeared from the direction of Aboukir. The Egyptian lines were most irregular, and some of the men apparently unarmed. The cavalry were also confused from the restlessness of their horses. About five o'clock in the evening the British ironclad train sent out a car with a 40-pounder detached, and sent about forty yards in advance of the engine, and fired two shell upon the Egyptians, who endeavored to execute a flanking movement on the 40-pounder. After this movement was frustrated it was fired towards Kafr el Dwar. The Egyptians replied with a shell, which burst between the train and engine. The train then retired, firing during its retreat. Another shell exploded between the rails, and the train finally retired without damage. British infantry meanwhile fired from their intrenchments causing great loss to the Egyptian cavalry. The firing ceased at sunset.

A Rumor.

London, Aug. 20.—Despatch from Alexandria says it is rumored that Arabi Pasha's entrenchments will be attacked Monday morning at six o'clock.

Consul Long Attacked.

Alexandria, Aug. 19.—Long, the American consul, was attacked yesterday inside the gates by about 40 natives. Soldiers arrived and dispersed the crowd and the ringleader of the assaulting party was arrested. It appears that natives had attempted to stop Long, when he was driving, and he became annoyed and urged on his horse, inflicting injuries on some party.

Port Said Notes.

Port Said, Aug. 19.—Just before sunset the gunboat Falcon went to apparently reconnoiter Fort Ghemel. She is now anchored off the fort.

Two French gunboats entered the canal to-day, said to be bound for Ismailia. It is also said that some British troops will leave here to-night for Ismailia.

H. M. S. Tourmaline is apparently detained for duty at Ismailia.

London, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Port Said at seven A. M., says sailors are landing and disarming natives who offer no resistance. Several transports and men-of-war are anchored here, and a fleet numbering seven, coming in. The gunboats Dee and Don have entered the canal. Rear-Admiral Hewitt has stopped canal traffic.

The British admiral commanding, at 9:25 granted permission to land the shore end of the cable which has hitherto been worked from on board the ship John Pender. The German gunboat Habicht returned yesterday.

Port Said Occupied by the British.

London, Aug. 19.—The eastern telegraph company announce that Port Said was occupied at three o'clock this morning by English forces, and at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon earthworks had been thrown up between the European and Arab quarters of the town. Seventeen transports and five men-of-war are at Port Said, and Admiral Seymour and General Sir Garnet Wolseley are both there. This morning Ismailia was also occupied by the British and rebel troops driven from Nefich. The British have possession of the telegraph line from Port Said to Suez.

Egyptian Troops Captured.

Port Said, Aug. 20.—The occupying force numbers 6000. Two hundred and fifty-two Egyptian soldiers were disarmed without resistance. The government of the Khedive has been reinstated. The commander and Egyptian troops are prisoners in offices of the canal company. Three telegraph offices are occupied by the British. The canal has been closed to merchant vessels and dredgers in it have been seized. The bombardment of Ghemlieh fortifications will probably take place to-day. The French despatch boat Aspic left yesterday to take the place of the corvette Forbin at Suez. The Forbin has gone to Massowah to protect French subjects. The British man-of-war Tourmaline entered the canal this morning with the gunboat Dee, and cleared for action.

The British take Possession of Suez Canal.

Ismailia, Aug. 20—DeLesseps wrote to Rear Admiral Hewitt as follows: "It is said British troops will land on the banks of Suez canal. I appeal to your honor as a British admiral, that vessels which according to the by-laws of the company we cannot refuse pilots are being employed for purposes in violation of the neutrality of the canal which has been secured by the sultan's firman and recent declaration of maritime powers."

M. DeLesseps in another letter says: "The British admiral has informed the chief transit agent of the canal company that in consequence of his instructions from the British government he will prohibit entry into the canal until further orders all vessels even the canal company's boats, and in case of need he will resort to force to prevent such entrance. The admiral has further placed gunboats at the entrances to the canal. I protest against this act of violation and spoliation."

General War Notes.

London, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Alexandria states Generals Willis and Graham and the duke of Connaught have gone to Aboukir. Of the whole fleet of ironclads the Invincible and Inconstant alone remain.

The 49th, 75th and 79th regiments at Ramleh will probably support the movement at Aboukir by an attack on the left flank of the enemy.

General Wolseley and aides accompanied the transports in the dispatch boat Salamis. Admiral Seymour will hoist his flag on board the iron-clad Alexandria.

Another Egyptian policeman was recognized to-day as one of the assassins of the 11th of June.

Advices from Cairo report all quiet there up to the 16th inst. It appears even the general commanding the brigades was not informed of the intended movements. It is said that Major-General Sir Edward Hamley had been ordered to support the bombardment of Aboukir's forts by a flank attack from Ramleh and was unaware of the real plans until he opened this morning the sealed orders he received. A reconnoissance by the armored train made this afternoon drew fire from the Egyptian fifteen centimetre Krapp gun but the aim was bad. The British 40-pounders on the train replied and silenced the enemy. The fortifications at Ramleh are being strengthened by Arab laborers.

Trouble Ahead.

London, Aug. 19.—The Post understands the porte has countermanded military preparations for the expedition to Egypt, and declines to accept British conditions for military conventions.

Getting out of Range.

Alexandria, Aug. 19.—The German gunboat Habicht, the Russian man-of-war [illegible], and several other foreign vessels have put to sea.

Movements of Troops.

Alexandria, Aug. 19.—The transports Arab and British Prince, with troops, arrived here to-day.

Portsmouth, Aug. 19.—The troop ship Malabar with 20 officers and 1083 men, drafted from various regiments in England, sailed to-day amid great enthusiasm. The queen will inspect the ship from her yacht as she passes through the channel.

Bound for Beyrout.

Malta, Aug. 19.—German corvette Nymph sailed from this port to-day for Beyrout.

Railway Material for Egypt.

Woolwich, Aug. 19.—The steamer Stirling has sailed with a quantity of railway plant for Port Said.

Alexandria Notes.

Alexandria, Aug. 20.—The transports Grecian, France and Nepaul have arrived. Probably Riaz Pasha will take the post of minister of interior in Cherif Pasha's new cabinet.

Conference Subjects.

Constantinople, Aug. 20.—It is said Assym Pasha has prepared a draft for a convention embodying mutual concessions by England and Turkey. The new project will be submitted to Lord Granville and afterward to the sultan for ratification. It is thought probable the conference will meet again Monday. The Italian representative has obtained [illegible] to the protocol relating to international protection of the Suez canal. Lord Dufferin, [illegible] previous [illegible] interference by [illegible] with [illegible]. A [illegible] all states [illegible] at [illegible] conference [illegible].

Conditions Offered.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—A special council was held to-day at which Assym Pasha was present. It was understood the porte was willing to modify his draft for a military convention by the addition of the following three clauses. First, an English general shall be attached to the Turkish camp to facilitate communications between Turkey and the British, second, that [illegible] English and Turkish forces shall mutually be carried out in such manner as to avoid interference of one with the other; third, a date shall be fixed for evacuation of Egypt by the English forces. It is believed the English will also consent to certain modifications in her draft for the convention and an understanding between the two governments is therefore regarded probable.

A telegram has been received from Arab Sheikh Abdallah announcing his arrival at Kur [illegible].

Arabi in the Ascendant.

The sultan is understood to be more adverse than ever to issuance of a proclamation against Arabi Pasha and acceptance of the proposal for a military convention. The fanatical party are for the moment entirely in the ascendant. The growing sympathy of the people here with Arabi Pasha is daily causing the palace increased anxiety. Several arrests have already been made of persons too strongly outspoken in support of Arabi. Inflammatory religious utterances have been prevalent in mosques, notoriously in that of St. Sophia during Ramazan, or the Mohammedan Lent, which is now being observed.

The Khedive's Ministry.

Alexandria, Aug. 19.—The khedive has decided to entrust Cherif Pasha with the presidency of the new ministry; but the ministry will not be constituted until the arrival of Riaz Pasha. Information from headquarters states a prominent person has been discovered to be in constant communication with the rebels. He will be arrested and confined on board an Egyptian man-of-war. It is reported the person referred to is Hassan Pasha.

Cannot Accept Turkish Proposals.

London, Aug. 20.—A dispatch from Constantinople says: "Lord Dufferin has declared he was unable to accept the Turkish proposals for a military convention, even in their new form. Said Pasha and Assym Pasha are understood to be strongly in favor of an understanding with England.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Eira's Crew Found.

London, Aug. 20.—The steamer Hope, commanded by Sir Allen Young, C. B., which left here in June last in search of the crew of the steamer Eira, has arrived at Peterhead with the entire crew of that vessel. The Hope picked them up in Matolschkin straits, Nova Zembla, on the 3d of August, they having lost their ship off Franz Josef-land, and journeyed in boats to the straits through the ice. Leigh Smith, commander of the Eira expedition, gives the following account of his experience: On July 13, 1881, we steamed through pack ice and ten days later sighted Franz Josef-land. We proceeded towards Cape Ludlow, which was close to the pack and northward. Aug. 2d we went up Nightingale sound and thence to Eira harbor and erected a storehouse. On the 16th we started east to look for the Jeannette, but were unable to pass Vincent hook. On August 21st the Eira got nipped between a land floe and pack ice a mile east of Cape Flava, and sank before we were able to save many stores. We built a hut on Cape Flava of turf and stones, and covered it with sails. We wintered there, and during the whole time no signs of scurvy appeared. Twenty-nine walrus and 36 bears were killed and eaten. We left Cape Flava June 21, 1882, in four boats, and sailed 80 miles without seeing any ice, and reached Nova Zembla August 3d. When the Eira was nipped the leak gained so rapidly that in two hours after it was discovered it was necessary to abandon the ship. Hardly had the last man left the vessel when the ice eased and the Eira rapidly sank. A tent was first erected on the ice, and the house was subsequently built.

The Pope's Advice.

Rome, Aug. 20.—A letter from the pope to the Irish bishops, dated August 1st, is published here. His holiness expresses his profound regret that tranquility has not been restored in Ireland and that murders continue to be committed. He says the Irish people by following the advice of their prelates may hope for alleviating ills from which they suffer. A just cause must be upheld by just means. Secret societies must be shunned and in the words of Saint Augustine, the first characteristic trait of liberty is non-commission of crimes. Priests ought to be active supporters of public order during the present trouble." The latter concludes by expressing the hope the English government will do justice to all classes of Irish people, remembering the pacification of Ireland constitutes an element of tranquility in the whole empire.

A Disgrace to Ireland.

Dublin, Aug. 19.—One of the two boys wounded at the time the Joyce family were murdered has died of his wounds. He was only 14 years old. The other boy, who is but 12, is in a very prostrate condition. He states the assassins who were disguised numbered four or five. Joyce's mother was over 80 years of age. Part of her body was devoured by dogs before her corpse was discovered. The house in which the family lived presents a sickening spectacle. The bodies of the victims lie on the floor riddled with bullets and mangled as if battered with a hammer. The murder was the most horrible that ever disgraced even Ireland. Four persons have been arrested on suspicion.

Feeling Hopeful.

Dublin, Aug. 19.—George Otto Trevelyan, chief secretary for Ireland, speaking at Londonderry to-day, said the Irish government were beginning to feel a sense of hope, almost of confidence, to which they were strangers at the dark hour when they commenced their labors.

A Friend in Need.

Dublin, Aug. 19.—Lord Mayor Dawson, in a letter in which he enclosed ten pounds toward paying Gray's fine, says he is prepared to take all legal steps as a member of the court which sentenced Gray to evince his want of concurrence in its decision.

Earl Spencer's Opportunity.

Dublin, Aug. 19.—It is stated that Earl Spencer, lord lieutenant of Ireland, has received authority to act as he sees fit in the case of Grey. It is generally anticipated that Grey will soon be released.

The Regular Thing.

London, Aug. 21.—Three men working on a boycotted farm near Boyle were fired at yesterday and one named Gaffney was mortally wounded.

Suspects Released.

Cork, Aug. 19.—Thirteen suspects, arrested under the coercion act, have been released from Enniskillen prison.

An Experiment Boat.

London, Aug. 19.—There has arrived off Scilly a small experimental collapsible boat constructed of cork and canvass. It contains a crew of five persons. The boat was put overboard from the steamer 200 miles west of Scilly.

George J. Holyoake Coming.

London, Aug. 20.—George J. Holyoake, author of numerous works in the interests of the working classes and co-operation has sailed for New York. His visit to America has reference to matters connected with emigration.

A Plot Unearthed.

Trieste, Aug. 19.—The bombs found in the box seized here yesterday, are identical in construction with those thrown into the ranks of the society of veterans on the 2d inst., while they were marching through the Corso to salute the emperor's brother, the Arch Duke Charles Lewis. An inquiry was held yesterday when the commission charged with the work, discovered an elaborate plot located in Italy, while its employers are engaged in constructing bombs at Trieste. A large number of the latter, dwelling in the lowest quarter of town, have been arrested for throwing. Also some of the persons who participated in throwing bombs on the 2d inst. Among the documents found in the box were proclamations which, although bearing a Trieste imprint, were printed in Venice. Several Italian subjects have been expelled from this city.

Incendiary Freight.

Vienna, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Trieste says the Lloyd steamer that arrived to-day from Venice, had on board a box which was opened by the police and found to contain bombs and petards; also documents proving that the torchlight procession last night in celebration of the Emperor's birthday was intended to be made the occasion for using them.

A "Black Band" Discovered.

Paris, Aug. 20.—In consequence of disclosures made by one of the rioters arrested at Monceaux mine the police have seized a number of documents which proved an exposé of a secret society called the Black Band. The chief of the society escaped, but his deputy was arrested.

A Carlist Invasion Threatened.

Paris, Aug. 21.—It is announced from Andorra that the official appointed by the bishop of Andorra in his capacity of joint protector of the republic, has been encouraging a Carlist band which have threatened to invade the republic. Authorities who are appointed by France are preparing to resist the invasion.

Russian Intrigues.

Vienna, Aug. 21.—The situation in Roumania becomes very disquieting. Russians have apparently commenced their old outrages. Russian officers are frequently found on the Lower Danube studying the passages of the river and noting the Roumanian garrisons. Moldavia and Dobrudscha are the chief headquarters of Russian intrigue.

Disturbances in Montenegro.

Cattaro, Aug. 20.—Disturbances have broken out in the Montenegrin districts of Valsechin and Piva. The leader of the movement is a Montenegrin named Ivanovich, formerly captain of the Russian staff.

Tit for Tat.

Madrid, Aug. 20.—Because of the refusal of England to make concessions in regard to wines duties, newspapers urge the government to exclude England from the benefits of the most favored nation's clause.

Notable Death.

Versailles, Aug. 19.—Senator Forsanz is dead.

J. N. Pickham, Esq., foreman C. F. Sampson Manufacturing Co., North Adams, Mass., says: "St. Jacob's Oil is surely possessed of miraculous powers, for it cured me of a severe case of rheumatism when other remedies failed."

MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 21, 1882.

NEW YORK POLITICS.

The action taken by the republican state committee of New York in fixing the date of the convention, and in other matters, is construed to be unfavorable to Mr. Cornell's chances for renomination. How far the preferences of the committee are likely to influence the choice of delegates cannot be safely guessed at. If Gov. Cornell and the committee were in harmony, the result would be very well assured; but when Gov. Cornell and a majority of the committee are at variance a fierce controversy seems to be unavoidable, and the outcome is uncertain.

The position now occupied by Gov. Cornell is very different from that of three years ago when he was a candidate for the same office. Then he had the united support of the "machine" and his nomination was an easy matter, but the "scratchers"—the independent and liberal republicans who protested against the machine rule—were threatening, and subsequently proved to be as relentless as they pretended to be in advance of the nomination. This year the opposition to Cornell comes from the "machine" itself. He has made a good governor, which perhaps would be enough to gain for him the disfavor of the machine politicians, but in addition to all that he took occasion to emancipate himself from Roscoe Conkling's dictation, and hence the desperate fight which is made against him.

The situation is certainly very perplexing, regarded solely from a standpoint of party advantage. The sentiment of the Conklingites is well illustrated by a remark made a few days ago by one of Conkling's neighbors and friends in Utica—a gentleman entirely devoted to Conkling personally and politically—who expressed an ardent hope that Cornell should be nominated in order that he might be beaten. This remark shows how Conkling's friends feel. Of course they will try to prevent Cornell's nomination, but, failing in that, they will endeavor to beat him at the polls.

Ordinarily such a condition of things would suggest the wisdom of dropping Cornell in favor of some other candidate who would not excite the antagonism of the Conkling faction. But Cornell himself is a power in New York politics, and it is not unlikely that he returns with interest the hatred which the Conklingites bear him, and that, if deprived of the nomination by their machinations, he will seek his revenge. Moreover, the warm support and active effort of the Conkling faction cannot be counted upon in behalf of anybody except one of their own clique, whose nomination would excite other and perhaps more formidable contention within the party. It may be better, on the whole, to rely upon Cornell's strength, even if the bitter opposition of the Conkling faction is to be apprehended, than to take up with a compromise candidate who would not command the enthusiastic support of any of the factions. At all events it is certain that the New York "machine" is no longer the harmonious and solid institution it was before Conkling's downfall, and its dissolution, which the present situation foreshadows will be a compensation for almost anything which may happen.

The difficulties on the republican side are not so serious as they would be if the democrats were united. The latter still have the Tammany fight on their hands, and are not prepared to take advantage of the republican quarrels. John Kelly still demands that the Tammany organization be recognized as the democracy of New York City. If the democratic convention shall yield to this demand the rural democracy will refuse to submit; if not, John Kelly will again make an open fight against those who exclude him and his clan. He is not unfriendly to Cornell, and would be able, if so disposed, to overbalance all the intrigues which Conkling could organize against Cornell. The whole situation is complicated, but the independent sentiment on both sides must find a good deal of satisfaction in the many evidences that the bosses in both parties are not able to have things all their own way.

THE WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.

Three years ago the trustees of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary offered the proceeds of the sale of the academy block to the Willamette University provided it would raise twelve thousand five hundred dollars in cash as a permanent endowment and provided the debt on the university be reduced to five thousand dollars, and that all mortgages on the property be canceled.

On Saturday evening Gen. W. H. Odell, one of the trustees of the university and President VanScoy, met the trustees of the Portland Academy and reported that the conditions of the donation of the proceeds of the block had been met. Satisfactory proof having been presented, the trustees of the academy block voted to deliver over to the endowment agents of Willamette University the proceeds of this block, amounting to nearly fifteen thousand dollars, so that the university has just come into possession of about twenty-seven thousand dollars as a perpetual endowment, the interest of which is to be used in paying the salaries of teachers.

Since Rev. F. P. Tower has been financial agent, within the space of three years the university has gained, by getting in scholarships, by payment of debts and by raising cash endowment, a condition forty-three thousand dollars better than when Mr. Tower began his work. In that time the woman's college department has been organized, property secured and the building enlarged, which, when completed, will accommodate fifty students. The art department has also been organized, together with a conservatory of music. This has been done in addition to the amount stated above. The woman's college property is worth about ten thousand dollars. But to carry out the plans proposed by the trustees much larger sums than those already given or promised will be needed at once. It is only in a condition to live until it can fulfill these plans.

FOREIGN COMMERCE.

A bulletin from the statistics office gives actual figures to show what everybody knew before in a general way, that our exports for the past fiscal year had fallen far below those of the previous year. The total exports of domestic merchandise amounted to $733,073,937, as against $883,925,947 for the preceding year, a decrease of $150,852,010. It is impossible to give in detail the items showing where all the shrinkage occurred, as the detailed statements are only made up for the eleven months ending May 31. For this time, however, it is shown that the decrease in exports of breadstuffs was $76,950,073; in provisions, $29,284,093, and in cotton, $47,889,370. The bulk of the decrease is therefore in these three articles and is directly traceable to the short crops caused by last year's general drouth. Petroleum is the only article on the list which shows a marked increase, having risen from $34,762,341 in 1881 to $46,563,142 in 1882, or more than thirty per cent. While the exports fell off during the year the imports reached the highest point ever attained in the history of the country, having aggregated $724,623,317, as against $667,954,746 in 1880, when the highest point was reached previous to the present year. Notwithstanding the poor crops of last year and the unprecedented imports, we have still a fair balance in our favor, our total exports of domestic and foreign merchandise exceeding the imports by $25,727,856. We lost in gold and silver by the exchange about $7,000,000, but as we are producing nearly eighty millions annually of the precious metals ourselves this loss will not be felt in our money reserve.

On the whole, the statement is a reassuring one and clearly indicates that as a commercial nation we have quite passed our infancy, and even under the most adverse circumstances hereafter are likely to have more goods to sell than we will need to buy. Although the last year was exceptionally unfavorable for our commercial interests we are able to show a very good balance on the credit side.

H

BARTER AND PURCHASE.

It is part of the system of machine politics to set up offices for barter and sale. The boss regards them as his property, and he bestows them right and left as he thinks his personal interests require. His debts as a politician, incurred to push his own personal schemes in politics, he pays off by this debasement of the public service. Throughout the country there is a growing disapproval of the political methods among which this has so prominent a place. This disapproval is rapidly deepening into detestation.

Yet we shall soon see this game attempted at the capital of our state. One candidate at least will be there who in his eagerness to win and his unscrupulous readiness to employ any means that may promise addition to his support, will offer to make merchandise of the whole federal service in the state. Every official position will be offered to tempt avarice or minister to greed. Places filled, no matter how worthily, by men who do not support the pretensions of the boss, will be promised to others; and every man who has an individual project or selfish scheme to promote will obtain assurances that his wants will receive attention just as soon as the ring master reaches the place which will enable him to render the service.

The success of this undertaking, abnormal and monstrous, would be the building up of a personal party which, of course, would not carry the republican strength of the state. These political methods will not be tolerated, nor will the man be accepted as a leader by the republicans of Oregon who attempts to make them take the place of real ability and honest worth. At this moment there is only one man in Oregon so utterly without just sense of propriety as to have abandoned everything else in the world to a desperate attempt to force himself into a high official position. Does the man of high honor, real strength and conscious worth ever push himself in this shameless way?

The speech of Mr. English before the recent Indiana democratic convention contained some queer contradictions. So ardent was he in his advocacy of the anti-temperance side of the great issue that he argued that prohibition "would lessen the consumption of the farmers' grain," and that "it would wreck the fortunes of merchants and manufacturers"—that is, distillers and liquor sellers. These points were the sop to the liquor interest. Then he turns about and warns the liquor people that "the effect would be rather to cause the people to drink more." The laugh comes in when one tries to account for the anomalous effect of lessening the consumption of grain and wrecking the fortunes of liquor-sellers and distillers by the adoption of a law that would cause people to drink more.

On its adjournment every congress or legislature generally gets a certificate of character that it was the "very worst" that ever held a session. Although all congresses are said to come within an ace of ruining everybody, the members thereof when they come before their constituencies for re-election, generally get another chance to complete the ruin they are said to have begun. The fact is we have much bad legislation, some that is useless and some that is corrupt, but for all the country is not ruined. In the long run legislation will correct itself, but it will be when both people and representatives learn that the world can neither be made nor unmade by legislation, and that it will be best to make it largely a negation.

It has been figured out that in the house 6835 bills and 290 resolutions were offered during the congressional session just ended and referred to committees, of which over half have been reported back. Of the reports 1705 were printed. In the senate the same process was gone through with in the case of 2166 bills and 98 resolutions, the printed reports in that branch numbering 852. The house calendar contains seventy pages and the senate fifty pages of bills, with at least merit or demerit enough to get a committee report of some sort. The approved mode of burying merely buncombe bills is for the committee in charge to pigeon-hole them. The country is just as well off for the failure of the majority of this stuff.

A Hood river orchardist notes the fact that a peculiar insect which destroys pear and cherry trees has appeared in that locality, and gives a simple and cheap process for nipping the threatened evil in the bud. His suggestion that the legislature take measures to prevent the importation of diseased nursery stock is good, if it is practicable. Our cherries, particularly, are the finest in the world and are now free from blemish. It is highly important that this good condition should be maintained.

The commander of the British forces in Egypt took great chances in attacking Arabi. The situation—an offensive force of twenty thousand against a defensive force of seventy thousand well intrenched and armed—is greatly in favor of the Egyptians. The tardiness of news reports is due to the strictness and delays of British censorship; and at best we shall have only the British story of the fight.

A fine salmon, somewhat smaller and only slightly inferior to the "Chinook" of the Columbia river, runs in Shoalwater bay several weeks during September and October. There are no canneries there, but one of the Ilwaco establishments has made arrangements to take the fish in the bay and transport them in wagons to Ilwaco, where they will be put up for export.

An eastern paper thinks that from the pitiful story of Lieutenant De Long "the only useful lesson we have learned is the necessity for a further knowledge of Eastern Siberia." Entirely wrong. The only useful lesson to be drawn is to quit fooling around the frozen regions and leave the north pole to its icy self.

The republicans of Delaware are quite confident of making serious inroads upon the democracy at the next election. They hope to choose a legislature which will retire Senator Saulsbury.

WALLA WALLA, W. The local club's fielding was as good as the visitors', but the latter greatly excelled in batting and at the bat. The Walla Wallas [illegible] punish the Stars' pitcher, earning but one run [illegible] fifth inning. The others were given [illegible] errors. Following is the score by innings:

HOW THEY GO TO MAKE UP HUMAN LIFE.

The Thought Expounded by Bishop Hurst at the Taylor Street Methodist Church Yesterday Morning.

[illegible] that is faithful in that which is least is [illegible] also in much; and he that is unjust in [illegible] least is unjust also in much. Luke xvi:10.

[illegible] do the work of a microscope. They [illegible] powerful lenses [illegible] to bear on all our [illegible] Lord's [illegible] emphasis [illegible] factors that [illegible] life, and the [illegible] There is [illegible] the fact that there is no [illegible] life. What [illegible] more than time. Niagara flows [illegible] falls from century to century, and yet it [illegible] has never been [illegible] never [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] East. [illegible] life [illegible] the spirit [illegible] is something [illegible] the greatest possible [illegible] It is that spirit in a human body, [illegible] of race and nations, either obscure or celebrated. The body which furnishes a machinery for the mind and the soul for a time may be apparently [illegible] But none of these things take away from a human life its magnitude. It is great, the supreme thing, in the soul that looks out through its eyes.

The proposition which our Lord lays down is, that since all life is great, all service is likewise great. The very fact that a deed is a service, renders it in obedience to conscience and the command of God, lifts it up into the sphere of spiritual nobility. Our field of inquiry, therefore, is to examine the grounds on which this greatness of service depends.

I. On the age in which it is rendered. Man is always man, wherever you find him. But then he is largely the creature of the times which give him birth and home. There are no obscure corners in these bright modern days. The world is one vast house-top, where every word that is spoken is heard through all the busy streets below. When you are in St. Paul's you can stand at a certain point, and the gentlest word you speak may be heard throughout the great cathedral. This world, with its press and the increasing means for distributing human speech, is one vast sounding gallery, and what you say to-day, if worth the transmission, will not be forgotten to-morrow. In the elder days, when men were more given to retirement and meditation than now, strong words were forgotten, their reach was limited, their power measured by a few square miles of territory. But in these later times the world has gone into a process of combustion or illumination, and there is no longer a limit to the power of pure deeds. When the great Lisbon earthquake of the last century took place, the waters of Lake Miosen, far up in Norway, rose 20 feet above their wonted level. There was a sympathy between every part of the dull granite and cold clay and fickle sand that make up a continent. So between man and his brother man does a profound sympathy exist, and the force of one human deed upon others cannot be measured by years, but only by cycles. When an Athenian actor, in the hurry of his part, declared: "I am a man, and I regard nothing that is human foreign to myself," he uttered a sentiment which will outlast the last vestige of the Pantheon itself, and do its noble work in the coming ages. When Cavour, in his aspirations for the unification of Italy, declared the watchword, "A free church in a free state," he uttered a truth which has been breaking shackles for about a quarter of a century, and will continue to do so for centuries to come.

You can see in our times a certain peculiar potency to the deeper spiritual human deeds that is strange even in this endless chapter of surprises—the history of the world. Every new spiritual force that is added to our later life has its power of illimitable enlargement. When Christ said: "He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much," it would seem as if he were looking down the long vista of the centuries to this new day, when a strong word for the right and the truth reaches from pole to pole, and from the rising to the setting sun. Your scholars combine and prepare a new revision of the English translation of the New Testament, and it becomes an event of the decade. The Chicago Times had the entire revision in its morning's issue, the same day it was caught up in Broom street, New York. The telegraph took the changes across the Alleghenies as swiftly as thought itself, and the whole New Testament was furnished in the newspapers at the breakfast tables of Chicago as early as the bound copies came into the first subscribers' hands in New York. In former times there was no such interest taken in matters purely spiritual. When Luther nailed the 95 theses to the door of the Schloss-Kirche, there was hardly a ripple on the current of the general life of Europe. True, the click of his hammer will be heard until the echo from the east is lost in that from the west, encircling the earth; but at the time the affair was of interest to a small region, and was regarded very much in Leo's light, as only a quarrel of the monks. But in these days, an act of spiritual significance of to-day begins its work at once, and its field is the whole wide world.

II. A second determining cause of the magnitude of service is the end toward which it is directed. "The style is the man," said Buffon. Cuvier said: "Give me a single bone, and out of it I will construct the animal." In a higher moral sense one may say, show me the act, and I will tell you the hand that did it. If it be pure and true, designed for the building up of the better part of our nature, then its worth is without price. Your little scales for weighing ordinary deeds break to pieces when you put in them such mighty deeds as the prayer of a child or the martyrdom of an apostle. The little lie with which you stamp the coin current in the marts of our common place life, is too narrow and dull and the figure too devoid of art and skill and beauty and finish, to impress the finer and rarer gold of an unselfish human life. This element of purpose may be almost forgotten in the haste and impetuosity of an ordinary thinking. It is not a thing that comes of culture alone, or is born of enthusiasm, or is preached to us by the apostles of this or that new panacea for the relief of the burdened mind, but comes to us in the better hours of our calmer life, when, like Abraham, we quietly talk with God, and invoke his guidance for the pilgrimage before us. The world is a vast storehouse of desirable things; we have just so much coin; and so much strength to handle and transport what we need. Our happiness here, and in the eternity beyond, depends on what we shall choose, and what shall be our aim in life. This aim, or end, or goal—call it which you may—is great, because it gives direction to all we do. Your man at the wheel of an ocean steamer has in mind his port, his distant quay where he expects to land every passenger and all the freight, and the place of that harbor, whether 3000 or 10,000 miles away affects every watery mile over which the vessel speeds; and determines what winds she will encounter and what tides will favor or oppose. If the purpose, then, is something which determines the whole life, it has a magnitude and force that are beyond all our power of measurement. When Florence Nightingale dreamed out the noble purpose of relieving the suffering soldiers of the British army in the Crimea, she reared a monument that will long outlast all the petty jealousies and inveiglements that produced the war. It is our habit, though unconscious to us, to measure achievement by the object in view. We are constantly applying our measuring rod to character, and if we see that a man has been in deep earnest in his work, or has chosen the pure and the good, we place him where he belongs—among the pure workers for the world's improvement. If one has been a listless wanderer over the desert, following now this crooked path through the sands, and now that, this stray foot print and then that, we have but little to do with him. But if, like Lincoln, when his pen broke the slave's shackles, he meant some great purpose, there is no death for him; there is no failure. Men always succeed when following a lofty purpose. God's own word combines with the universal verdict of the historian of human deeds to show, that the pure worker for his brother's better state, and brighter hope, and stronger arm, and sweeter life, is always triumphant.

III. A third determining ground of the greatness of every service may be seen in our ignorance of the critical moments in our life. We never know just the moment when we are making a final decision. A merciful Father puts a veil before our curious eyes now and then, lest we be overpowered by the majesty and weight of the very conclusions we are reaching and the future that we are treading upon. A president may be full of life and hope, and talk freely of his plans, but before the July sun has reached its zenith the iron nerves have sent the news of the sharp thrill of his assassination to the antipodes. There is not simply an uncertainty that distinguishes all we do, the more important stages of our life; it applies to even the obscurest hours of our career, the very moments when we think nothing depends on what we do, or what may be our words. We cannot tell just when our weary feet reach the dividing line paths, one of which leads us to certain victory and happiness, the other to certain failure and ruin. It would seem as if our good Father would have put us in charge of some good angel, whom he could well have spared from the presence for a time, to be our guide in at least these critical and decisive stages. Yet this angel we do not have; such companionship we are deprived of; and our only safety is in paying minute attention to every duty, whether small or great. You can always test a great artist by his fidelity to the smaller and more delicate features. [illegible] of Raphael lies largely in the eyes of that [illegible] as she holds the infant Jesus in her arms [illegible] by those very eyes [illegible] know and [illegible] see [illegible] the future that awaits him. We always associate excellence, whether of work or of character, by its fidelity to trifles. The wise [illegible] loses sight of the very lowest [illegible] objects and [illegible] the smallest thing. [illegible] which is [illegible] the [illegible] the great Goethe. The late Napoleon never won his battles by any great grouping of masses [illegible] but by [illegible] with his power of attention to the genius of details. He watched to the [illegible] by night, and [illegible] as a common [illegible] the sentry examined into the kind of food on which the army fed, kept the knowledge of the army roll, never forgot any part of the [illegible] that enter into the material or morale of gigantic warfare. What is genius but the mastery over both the obscure and the more [illegible] that constitute the setting and framework of our affairs? What is fidelity to God but the conscientious discharge of every duty, whether we measure it by the touch of the [illegible] As to who [illegible] not know [illegible] courage [illegible] upon [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] Such are the [illegible] rather [illegible] what energy, with this [illegible] what terror will [illegible] raise up [illegible] success comes from a total [illegible] friendship and the abundance of a life that is shaped by policy alone. Away with this perpetual consultation concerning the proprieties of the hour.

Our age needs not so much [illegible] as answering fidelity to our convictions. We have [illegible] the right and the wrong. We [illegible] in this independent [illegible] course. [illegible] new [illegible] a [illegible] a policy [illegible] friendship or hostility. What we need [illegible] loyalty [illegible] strong, and broad and [illegible] In the [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] ascended the [illegible] the [illegible] the private [illegible] the [illegible] Englishman [illegible]

IV. The last fact [illegible] the [illegible] I shall mention is the [illegible] with which we perform it. All true [illegible] relative. [illegible] has an [illegible] and [illegible] may have as great a deed as Michael Angelo when he carved his statue of Moses. We dare not estimate character and [illegible] by the rule or the [illegible] We must ask, what was his opportunity, what was his spirit, what [illegible] his work. [illegible] we [illegible] at work [illegible] there is nothing wanting to make up our [illegible] When Gustavus Adolphus lay dying on the field of victory at Lutzen, a soldier brought him a cup of water with which to slake that parched thirst which the flowing blood always leaves behind it. But the great Swede was [illegible] the [illegible] by [illegible] the [illegible] It is not the size of the service which we render to God, the power we have to measure its [illegible] or [illegible] but the spirit of loyalty and sacrifice [illegible] that God recognizes as the standard of our judgment of human deeds. Hence our Lord said: "Whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only, in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you he shall in no wise lose his reward." The spirit which prompts one to make a sacrifice, and to do his whole duty in the path, and amid the environment in which providence or nature may have placed him, is, after all, the greatest test of sincerity and love. The woman who broke the alabaster box of ointment over our Lord's head did for him a greater service than an Augustus Cæsar would have done had he sent an army to Palestine to win for him a crown or a throne.

One of the great beauties of our Christian faith is just this revelation of all things into their true light. When Christ came it was the signal for the dispersion of the thicker and darker shadows over the pathway of human progress. It was not long before the old faith was called paganism, the religion of the pagans, or of country villages, while Christianity had become the faith of the cultivated centres. It soon pronounced its determination concerning the distant provinces, and never forgot the Master's final word to "preach the gospel to every creature." Its mission was pronounced and positive, and it never lost sight of it. It felt that its duty was to the whole world and to the whole man. Then, should we, who live within the sunlight of Christianity, be so full of its spirit, so intent upon the life which it cultivates, that the days we spend here shall be something more than a bare existence, a vacant running through the years. There is a difference in vision. One might go through the Dresden or the Vatican gallery and linger by the hour at this or that creation of genius, while another might pass through without seeing a single beauty from beginning to end. Not only must there be an object to see, a harmony to hear, a symmetry to admire, but there must be an organ of vision, or of hearing, by which to take in this mystifying world. It is this organ, this spiritual sight, we need for all our work. The Master said: "The light of the body is the eye: if therefore, thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light. But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If, therefore, the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness." So let us live and work! Let us look out, and our existence here, each new day, as it comes and goes, is a privilege beyond price. Let the spiritual vision see our duties in their great strong light, so far-reaching, never small, and not one to be despised. The most of our life consists of the obscure and the commonplace. By far the chief portion of the words we speak, and the deeds we perform, are never known to the world. It is only given to one now and then, of the great surging millions, to do or say what will reach out beyond the continent or the century. Hence, with each one of us, fidelity to each duty, the bearing of every burden which we find placed upon us, the serene and happy mind that envieth not another his palace, or his crown, but smiles happily beneath its cottage of thatch and in its raiment of homespun, will triumph in the end. For it is the victory of conscience over temptation; the triumph of duty over policy; of truth over error. It is the lifting up of the obscure into royalty and immortality. It is the victory of the faithful servant. So he hears the welcome: "Thou hast been faithful over a few things: be thou ruler over many!"

IN THE EVENING

The church was again crowded. Rev. C. H. Fowler preached an excellent sermon, his subject being "The Exaltation of Christ." Mr. Fowler has a pleasing delivery, is rich in gesture, and in the choice of words he spoke without notes—evinced rare taste.

"OLIVETTE."

Brief Synopsis of the Plot of this Charming Operetta and the Cast of Characters To-night at New Market.

The scenes in "Olivette" are laid at Perpignan, in the center of Rousillon, on the shore of the Mediterranean, and the time is that of Louis XIII. Act I. represents the Seneschal's house at Perpignan. Act II., the ballroom of the palace of Rousillon; Act III., the interior of the "Main Brace Tavern;" the "Cormorant" at anchor.

In the first act the people of the village are excited over the approaching marriage of the Seneschal's only daughter, Olivette, with the old sea captain, De Merimac. The young lady has just arrived from a convent, where she has fallen in love with a young officer, Valentine, nephew of De Merimac. The young countess of Rousillon has, however, fallen in love herself with the young soldier, and comes to Perpignan to see him. In the house of the Seneschal the countess has her solitude invaded by Valentine, who believes he is climbing the balcony of Olivette. Meanwhile the uncle, whose suit does not prosper with Olivette, writes the countess a letter, demanding the young lady's hand. Valentine contrives to pass himself off for the real De Merimac, and accordingly marries Olivette at the request of the countess.

Act II. opens with a ball given by the countess, in honor of the wedding, and Valentine finds that he has not only to personate his uncle, but himself, by constant change of dress. The real De Merimac returns, and is greeted by everybody as the happy bridegroom. Finally his perplexity is resolved by the appearance of Valentine as the old man, and the result of the explanation is that De Merimac agrees to take the bride that Valentine has married in his name. A conspiracy is formed, and Olivette gets rid, for the moment, of her elderly bridegroom. The love of the countess for Valentine upsets the calculations of Olivette, for the sovereign lady of Rousillon announces her intention of marrying the loyal soldier who has quelled the conspiracy. As a last resource, Valentine, at the instigation of Olivette, joins the plot, and the countess is ordered to be sent out of the kingdom.

The third and last act describes the partial success of the plot and the imprisonment of the countess on the "Cormorant," the ship commanded by De Merimac. Olivette and her husband, disguised as sailors, seek a vessel to take them away. Valentine is detected and seized. Olivette manages to set the countess free and assume her dress, her own place being taken by her maid, Veloutine, whom the near-sighted Duke courts. De Merimac returns and is horrified to hear the Duke tell Valentine of his courtship of Olivette. Both nephew and uncle disown the bride, until the return of the countess and the unveiling of Olivette. Valentine at last is united to Olivette, the countess accepts the Duc des Ifs, and De Merimac is advised to follow the example of the Doge of Venice and "marry the sea."

For the presentation of this operetta to-night at New Market, the management have made elaborate preparations. The wardrobe of the company is entirely new as well as the scenery. Following is the MURDERED.

Giannini makes another Statement implicating his Partner.

FAINTING AT SIGHT OF FERRARA.

The Prisoner Claiming that his First Story was made up from fear that he also would be Murdered.

Ever since Giannini told his story of the killing of Giovanni Ricco, the officers at the police station have been impressed by his manner that he had left a startling episode. On Saturday he sent for one of his friends here in the city, saying that he wished to speak with him in private. This was not allowed, but he then said he had something more to say, and had resolved to tell the straight [illegible] of the whole matter and in the presence of witnesses. He also expressed a wish to have the reporters of the daily press present, that a true statement of the affair might be put afloat. He wished to talk through Moretti, the interpreter, and appointed yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock as the hour when he would make known a startling story.

At the appointed time Moretti, the interpreter, stepped to the barred window of the cell and asked Giannini if he was ready to speak. The latter said he would like to talk with Moretti alone for a few minutes. This the interpreter would not agree to, saying he did not wish to be made the recipient of any secrets of the prisoner. The cell was then opened and the interpreter with Messrs. Mulkey, Goodwin, McGinn and Ferrara entered. Mr. Ferrara was an old friend of Ricco, and believing that the latter was murdered has done everything in his power to see justice done. The prisoner Giannini knew this, and when Mr. Ferrara entered the cell he cast one look upon the latter, turned pale and fainted. All efforts of those present to bring him back to consciousness were unavailing and Dr. Saylor was sent for. It was thought at first the prisoner had in some manner obtained and taken strychnine, as he exhibited symptoms of the use of that poisonous drug, but on the doctor's arrival he pronounced the unconsciousness to have been produced by a sudden shock.

After a lapse of three-quarters of an hour the prisoner regained his senses and proceeded to relate in Italian his second story of the death of Ricco. It was broken much by the interruptions of the interpreter, who translated it for the benefit of those who could not understand Italian, and a great many repetitions occurred in consequence, but at no time did the prisoner contradict himself, and as Assistant District Attorney Mulkey remarked, "It sounded as though he had taken plenty time to learn it."

Beginning at the very first of the trouble, he related the same story about the pocket book and the men going away to look for it, as was published from his first statement. Then, instead of saying that he found the pocket book in Ricco's possession, he told how he had suspicions of Ricco's having stolen it. He confided these suspicions to his partner, Candiani, and the latter said, "Well, if he has got it, I'll make him give it up. You leave him to me."

This was in the house. Candiani then went out doors and called Ricco to him. The prisoner had remained in the house and heard his partner accuse Ricco of having the pocket book and tell him to give it up. Then followed high words and a scuffle, during which both parties went over the brow of the hill and out of sight. Giannini went to the door, but could see nothing of them and did not follow them up. In a few moments he heard three pistol shots in rapid succession. Candiani returned to the house with pale face and excited movements, and with blood upon his clothes. He flourished a revolver in his hand, the same weapon which Giannini now has in his satchel, and said to the latter, "I have two shots left here and if you ever dare to tell what has happened here to-day I'll kill you."

Giannini says Candiani is a man of commanding presence and of whose very look he stands in awe. Together they connected the story of the pocket-book having been found on Ricco, the taking it away from him and his discharge, which was told to the other men. Upon his arrest Giannini was still impressed with the fear of his partner, he says, which led him to say he had killed the man in self defense.

Night came on and Giannini went to bed, but Candiani went out of the house and was gone about two hours. Giannini could not sleep, and early in the morning he got up and went out toward the spot where he heard the pistol shots. He found blood upon the ground and also a trail where a heavy body had been dragged along the ground. He followed this about two hundred yards until he came to a place on the bank of the creek, where the ground had been newly broken and there was a little mound of new earth covered over with brush. This he believed to be the place where the body of Ricco would be found.

How he came to have the ticket for Ricco's watch he explained by saying Ricco had given it to him before his death, asking him to call and get it when he came to Portland. Candiani owed him some money and before his departure from the factory had paid him $300. Where this money came from the prisoner did not know. He had paid all this money out to persons in Portland whom he owed and showed receipts for a great part of it.

This, therefore, is what his startling statement amounts to: charging the murder, now no longer doubted, upon his partner, and the avowal of his own innocence of any participation in the crime. It is scarcely necessary to state that the authorities believe none of this last story, but taking both statements into consideration with the attendant circumstances, they think that both Giannini and Candiani were implicated in a cold blooded murder of Ricco for his money. If Candiani has left the factory and the money belt of the murdered man is missing, these suspicions will be strengthened.

Sheriff White leaves this morning for the upper Cascades with Giannini. Nothing has yet been heard from the coroner who went in search of Ricco's body. If Candiani can be found he will be arrested at once. The charge will be murder and as the facts now appear the case against Giannini will be a strong one.

THE OAKLAND HOME INSURANCE COMPANY.

Semi-Annual Statement.

THE SEMI-ANNUAL STATEMENT OF THE Oakland Home Insurance Company for the six months ending June 30th, 1882, shows an excellent condition of affairs to exist, and that, despite the generally unfavorable season, this company has advanced in business, assets, surplus and income. The total assets now stand at $271,341 33, as against $244,867 61, January 1, 1882, with present liabilities, including re-insurance reserve, and all other claims, of $59,375 66, showing a surplus as regards policy-holders of $212,-108 67.

From a comparative review of the semi-annual statement, we gather that the gross premiums written during the six months ending June 30, 1882, amounted to $56,788 24, an excess of $22,088 78 over the corresponding period last year. This shows average gross premium receipts of $9464 per month, as against $5781 per month last year, or a percentage of gain for 1882 over 1881 of about one-third per cent. Taking into consideration the net premiums written, and we find they have amounted to $49,754 02, or $8,292 33 per month for the last half year, as against $26,474 47, or $4,412 41 per month for the corresponding period in 1881. The percentage of gain in 1882 over 1881 is, therefore, 87 and one-half per cent. The total losses incurred, were $16,-001 61, which shows a percentage of loss to net premiums of 32.2.

To recapitulate, the Oakland Home, during the half year ending June 30, 1882, received in income, $21,867.-79, over all expenditures, including dividends, losses, commissions, salaries and miscellaneous expenses. Over $6000 has been added to its surplus account, and nearly $20,000 to its re-insurance reserve. In the light of these figures, the managers of the company are to be congratulated.

The above is copied from the COAST REVIEW of San Francisco, the most reliable authority on insurance published on the Pacific coast.

The Oakland Home Insurance Company has recently deposited $50,000 in United States bonds with the state treasurer at Salem, for the special security of its Oregon policy, and established a northwestern department, consisting of Oregon and Washington and Idaho territories, with headquarters at Portland under the management of Messrs. Ferry, White & Co. Policies will be issued and losses adjusted and paid by this department, the same as if the head office of the company was situated in Portland, thus making the Oakland Home, for all practical purposes, a home company. Messrs. Ferry, White & Co. will establish agencies for this company in all of the principal towns in their district which have well organized fire departments. 1t

A little daughter of J. M. Bisby, of Butte creek, was bitten by a rattlesnake last week, which nearly cost her her life, though at present she is slowly recovering.

A Butte creek correspondent says: The weather has been very hot at this place, so much so that it has hastened the harvest, and that with the grasshoppers has caused the farmers to cut most of the grain for hay. Our crops, however, are an average, grass is good, [illegible].

The mechanics at The Dalles car shops are engaged in the manufacture of two portable [illegible] to be used on the line of the railway for the purpose of lifting heavy weights. These will be very convenient for [illegible] purposes, as with them grading can be done much more quickly.

About three weeks ago an old man by the name of Davis, living on Thirty Mile creek, where the Butte creek road [illegible], was missed from his house. The neighbors turned out in force and searched the premises, also hunted the creek both above and below his house, but were compelled to abandon the hunt without finding him. Last Monday a sheep herder, while out with his flock, found his dead body in a gulch almost nude, about two miles from his house. It is supposed that he wandered off while laboring under temporary insanity, and died, though there are some suspicions of foul play.

The new sawmill at Lake [illegible] has commenced operations.

J. T. Brockman and G. F. Westfall have purchased 37 acres of land from C. N. Byles, at Montesano, for $1000, and are laying it off in town lots.

The factory in North Seattle is turning out the material for between 500 and 800 barrels per day. It is expected the capacity of this factory will be increased one-third by the additional machinery from Puyallup.

Jasper Hartman, on the Nisqually bottom, the largest hop ranch in that locality, has contracted his entire crop at 30 cents, just double the price received last year. He expects to harvest about 14,000 pounds, which will bring the sum of $4200. The entire cost of cultivation, picking, curing and marketing will amount to about $500, leaving the snug little balance of $3700 to be counted as profits.

The coal mine a few miles south of Tenino, and particularly known as the mine opened by Gov. Salomon and Col. Bee a few years ago, is on fire. Smoke issues from the ground for some distance around, and the earth is very hot. A year ago, the coal at the shaft got on fire, but it was supposed to be all extinguished. It probably has been burning since that time slowly, until now the whole vein is on fire.

The new hospital at Seattle will be ready to care for patients in six weeks. Its cost will be $23,000. The whole building will be lighted with gas, and will be supplied throughout with the Coffier system of ventilation, which insures a never-failing supply of fresh pure air. An elevator, the only one in Seattle, will be located in the rear of the building and will be run by steam from the engine of the water tank belonging to the institution.

J. S. Hicklin sold his farm 18 miles from Olympia last week for $2500. The new owner intends to convert it into a stock ranch for breeding blooded stock. He also intends building and keeping a summer resort for California people, who it is believed will be glad of an opportunity to rusticate in the hills, and hunt and fish. Boats for their accommodation will be put on Bray's lake, and stages will run regularly between Olympia and the resort.

Massachusetts Greenback Convention

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—The state greenback convention met, organized and adjourned till afternoon, and proceeded to ballot for a candidate for governor with the following result: whole number of votes [illegible] necessary for a choice [illegible]; Benj. F. Butler, 67; [illegible]; Judge Israel W. Andrews, [illegible]. The name of [illegible] was withdrawn. The second ballot resulted as follows: whole number of votes [illegible], necessary for a choice [illegible]; Butler [illegible]; Andrews [illegible]; Horace B. Sargent [illegible]. Butler was declared nominated. The following were also nominated: For lieut.-governor, George Dutton of Springfield; secretary of state, John Howe of Worcester; treasurer, [illegible] of Lynn; attorney-general, E. A. Stowe of Athol; auditor, Augustus F. Merchant of Haverhill. Power was given the state central committee to fill any vacancies that may occur on the state ticket. Resolutions were passed that are [illegible] should [illegible] governor Plaisted. The resolutions state that while the old political parties to [illegible] greenback principles they are adopting them from time to time, and among the principles thus adopted the policy of destroying greenbacks has been changed to issuing them. Silver, which was demonetized secretly, has been publicly restored to its former place. Our declaration that [illegible] weakness was because of exceptions placed upon its back by friends or dupes of the money power has been proved true by Hon. [illegible], Secretary of the Treasury, who, upon his own authority, removed the greatest of those objections and brought greenbacks to a premium over gold and silver coin. Our position that the government should retain for itself the option of paying its bonded debt whenever it had money to do so instead of funding it into long time bonds is rapidly becoming the position of the intelligent masses of our people. The resolutions further demand that a check be put upon the power of wealth, that the national debt be paid as rapidly as revenues allow, and if refunded be made payable on option; that the government issue all money, metallic or paper, and make it full legal tender, and abolish national banks as banks of issue; that no one be allowed to monopolize air, light and water, that all citizens be allowed the ballot on equal terms, equal taxation against property qualifications for suffrage, favors eight hours as a day's labor and a board of arbitration to settle disputes between employer and employed, and against convict contract labor and the resolutions conclude that as Americans we deplore the arbitrary imprisonment and illegal detention of our citizens in British bastiles and deplore our continued misrepresentation at the court of St. James by a minister who sanctions the illegal conduct of the British government.

Chicago Notes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—At the meeting of the county board for equalization of taxes this afternoon, Hugh Mahor, assessor of the town of Hyde Park, presented an affidavit stating that a prominent citizen, whose name was not given, tried to bribe him by an offer of $1,000, to reduce the assessment on property of the Pullman Company in that town. The announcement created a sensation. The attorney for the company was interviewed but denied the truth of the affidavit. It is understood the matter will be brought to the attention of the grand jury.

The police have clues which lead them to suspect that Eugene Dougherty, an ex-convict who shot the waiter named Gaines, two or three days ago, is the man who murdered Joel Prescott in his bath house some weeks ago.

At the meeting of the survivors of the military telegraph service to-night, the society of United States military corps was organized and a national re-union was called at Niagara Falls for September 21st.

Train Wrecking Attempted.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—A most dastardly and cold-blooded attempt to wreck a train was made last night at the first trestle this side of Allequeppi station, on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad. At Allequeppi yesterday there was a picnic which was attended by some 1000 or more men, women and children, filling some half a dozen coaches. On the return from Allequeppi the train was going at a rapid rate, when just before entering the first trestle the engineer discovered a large beam laying across the track, and the discovery was just in time to enable him to stop the train. Had his attention been attracted in another direction but for a minute before he saw the obstruction across the track the train would have been precipitated below a distance of 40 feet, and with such precipitation that there would have been a terrible loss of life.

Heavy Sentence.

READING, Pa., Aug. 19.—Adam Dunder, the defaulting ex-county treasurer, pleaded guilty of embezzling state funds today. The sentence was three years separate and solitary confinement at hard labor in Berks county jail, to pay costs of prosecution, that he make restitution of $19,000 stolen and stand committed until sentence is complied with. The other score or so of indictments were laid aside for subsequent action.

The War of Races in Arkansas.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Journal's Little Rock: Reports from the scene of trouble between white and black laborers on the railroad, received this morning, represent there is great excitement. Negroes are greatly alarmed and fearing assassination. The sheriff of Craighead county is investigating and will arrest all parties suspected of kukluxism to negroes. The latter were driven from their work by masked men. Whites object to employment of negro laborers, and serious trouble is feared before the matter is settled.

Freight Collision.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—A serious collision between two freight trains, one following the other, on the Illinois Central railroad occurred at a crossing of that road and the Michigan Central south of here this morning. The engine, caboose and about twenty-five freight cars were smashed. An unknown man asleep in a caboose, was fatally hurt and the track obstructed two hours and a half.

A Break in the Strike.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—The most important break yet in the ranks of the striking miners took place to-day when sixty miners left the strikers and proceeded to the works of the Mansfield Coke & Coal Company and offered their services at a three and a half rate. This is regarded by operators as the forerunner of a general break, which will follow in a few days and end the strike.

An Interesting Report.

PITTSBURG, Aug 18.—It is reported on reliable authority that one of the Amalgamated Association's lodges at the meeting last night after a very heated session passed a resolution to submit the old scale to manufacturers for their signatures, provided the president of the lodge would give his consent. If the report is true this will have an important bearing on the strike.

Conkling and Cornell.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—A New York special interviewed Conkling, who spoke about the recent attacks on him in a very general way, and said until he had read them, as he would try to do in course of a week or so, he could not say anything further. He could say it was incredible Gov. Cornell should be a party to the circulation of such charges.

Forest Fires in New York.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 19.—Woods on the crest of Crow Nest and Storm King and the Highlands, are burning. Farmers are fighting fire, and as it appears to be spreading towards West Point, enlisted men have also been sent forward to check its progress. Considerable cordwood is endangered.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Gray's Sentence Condemned.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Pall Mall Gazette: Mr. Gray's sentence looks worse to-day than yesterday. It is now a question whether Mr. Gray, as a journalist has not been instrumental in unearthing a grave scandal. We do not believe there is a single English journalist who would not have called attention to such a report as that spoken of by Mr. Gray. That Mr. Gray should be in jail as a scoundrel of the first magnitude is an outrage.

A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Dublin states the speeches made at the banquet given to Parnell after the conviction of Gray have been submitted to the law officers for decision as to whether any action should be taken upon them. O'Gorman Mahone, member of parliament from county Clare, in a speech on that occasion, compared Judge Lawson to Jeffreys, and pointed out that the former narrowly escaped being torn to pieces by an indignant people. Mr. Healey, member of parliament for Wexford borough, denounced Judge Lawson with similar violence.

The Attacking Force.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 19.—The Aboukir division will consist of about 6000 men, and in case of necessity will be reinforced by 3000 from the naval brigade. Major General Sir Edward Hamley's division is 7000 strong. The weather is oppressively warm. Marines have gone on board transports. The men of the Inconstant took two 6½ ton guns, Arabi Pasha's own weapons, from Kadah to Ramleh to-day. A train ran to-day for the first time from Rosetta. It conveyed part of the Gordon highlanders to the right flank. It is reported from Cairo that Arabi Pasha has warned European residents that he will not be responsible for their safety, having to call all soldiers and police to the front.

Incendiary Fright.

VIENNA, Aug. 19.—A dispatch from Trieste says that the Lloyd steamer that arrived to-day from Venice, had on board a box which was opened by the police and found to contain bombs and petards; also documents proving the torch light procession last night in honor of the emperor's birthday, was intended to be made occasion for using them.

General War Notes.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug 18.—British iron-clads, with Egyptian and foreign men of war here, fired salutes to-day in honor of the birthday of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. Blue jackets from the flag ship Inconstant, mounted a seven inch gun at Ramleh to-day. They resume operations to complete the battery of four guns.

Ordered to Ireland.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Six hundred men of the army reserve have been ordered to Ireland to replace the troops sent from there to Egypt.

Free Speech in Ireland.

Mr. Dillon's speech at the meeting at the Mansion house yesterday, in which he referred with considerable feeling to the action of certain landlords, whom he named is under consideration by law officers.

Informer's Family Murdered.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Mr. Joyce and family of three have been murdered at their home in county Galway by a party of men. He was believed to be an informer.

THE PETCH MURDER.

Hiding Behind an Ambuscade which he had Prepared, the Murderer Fired.

MCMINNVILLE, Aug. 19.

The coroner's inquest reveals the following facts in regard to the murder of Mrs. Petch: She was on the way home from North Yamhill in company with her stepson, aged about thirty-four. When near their home in the mountains the fatal shot was fired from the roadside. The shot took effect in the side of her head, breaking the neck and severing the jugular vein. Mrs. Petch fell out of the wagon and the frightened horses ran some distance before they could be stopped. Before her son could get back to the body two more shots were fired, neither taking effect. A careful search revealed that the murderer had formed an ambuscade behind a log about twenty-five yards from the road, and had been at pains to break down intervening twigs and branches in order to get a clear shot. Two trails were visible—one slight one, along which he had come, and one better defined, where he had hurried away. This was the fourth attempt on the life of Mrs. Petch. Great excitement prevails, and threats of lynching are numerous if the murderer is caught.

ROADMAN HELD TO ANSWER.

HARRISBURG, Or., Aug. 19.—The arguments in the case of state vs. Roadman, before Justice Flint, closed today. The prisoner was held to answer [illegible] and his bail fixed at fifteen hundred dollars, which he instantly procured. The arguments of Messrs. Lane and Hamilton were brilliant efforts, clear, logical and convincing, and the decision of Justice Flint was a general surprise.

YAQUINA, Or. (via Corvallis), Aug. 19.—The preliminary examination of the Indian suspected of the murder of Hutchinson was held at Newport yesterday. His counsel waived examination. He was taken to Corvallis, or rather started for there last night. Men were here last evening trying [illegible] in the matter.

Thomas Brown was arrested by Constable Grant, Saturday, on a bench warrant issued by the police judge for contempt of court. Brown is the complaining witness against James Kelly, who has been arrested for assaulting Brown in Devlin's saloon, on First street, some days ago. When the case was called for trial yesterday, the prosecuting witness failed to appear, and it was intimated that he had been "run off" by friends of the accused. He was tracked to St. John's by Constable Grant, where, it is said, he intended to secrete himself until the arrival of the Astoria boat, when he was to go down the river. He will have an opportunity to explain his conduct in the police court, Monday.

John Moran, steward of the steamship Walla Walla, met his death at 11 o'clock Saturday night by falling from the gang plank to the float below, at the foot of Ainsworth dock. The fall was witnessed by William Schirmer, quartermaster of the vessel, who was on watch at the time. He says he saw two men come down the wharf and stop at the foot of the gang plank, where they conversed for some time in low tones. Finally one of them started away and the other came up the gang plank. Schirmer did not recognize who it was until the side of the vessel was reached, when he saw it was Moran. He was about to speak when Moran reeled to one side, and before Schirmer could reach him had fallen upon the float. The quartermaster called the first officer and taking a lantern started to spring down upon the float. As he did so his feet slipped and he also fell, but fortunately fell into the water, just touching the edge of the float, and escaping with a few bruises. Others came to his help by the time he had clambered upon the float, and the body was lifted upon the wharf. Meanwhile Dr. G. M. Wells had been sent for, and also the coroner. Moran breathed only a few times after his fall. When Dr. Wells came, he found the man had suffered a fracture of the skull over the left eye, killing him almost instantly. Coroner Cooke removed the body to his office and held an inquest, the jury rendering a verdict in accordance with the above facts. Moran has a family of a wife and three daughters living in San Francisco. He was about fifty years old, and had been steward on the Walla Walla since last July. He is a relative of Mr. P. Moran, steward of one of the Astoria boats.

Sheriff White, of Skamania county, Washington territory, came down to Portland Saturday. He knew nothing of the tragedy which occurred last Tuesday at the sugar factory on the river, except what was told in the dispatch sent him by the police. He had notified the coroner of the creek where the body could be found, and the latter at once set out for the place to make a search. What was the result has not yet been learned, although Sheriff White expects a dispatch from the coroner immediately upon his return. The sheriff will remain here two or three days, until a requisition from the governor can be obtained. During the absence of Chief of Police Luppens the command devolved upon Captain Luther, to whom much of the credit of Giannini's capture is due. The latter still refuses to talk with anyone, and when asked if he wished to see an attorney, replied in the negative. He was educated to the profession of a civil engineer in Switzerland, and was employed in the construction of the great St. Gothard tunnel through the Alps. In spite of his thick beard, which is cut short, with a full mustache, upon close inspection he has a very youthful look, and says he is about 22 years of age. He has a wife and one child in Switzerland, and his mother is still living, with his younger sister. In his cell he lies down nearly all the time, and smokes a great many cigars. When spoken to, he replies in a low, subdued voice, and never fails to thank the officers for any courtesies shown him. He lives well, ordering his meals from the outside at his own expense. Last night he ate a hearty supper of ham and eggs, with potatoes, tomatoes, baked beans and coffee, with relishes of pickles, sauce, etc. His eyes are red, as if from weeping, but none have seen him shed a tear. He has declined to see several acquaintances who have called upon him. One, who had known the prisoner quite well, said he could not believe that he would have committed a crime; but the circumstances of this case had shaken his faith. Ricco, the man who was killed, leaves a wife and family in Italy. He was working hard and saving his money, with a view of sending for them to come and join him in this country.
